Volunteers blitz the new scosa Hub

Moving in to a new premises often comes with a list of 'things to do'. However, for scosa, the Spastic Centres of South Australia Inc the 'list' has now been taken care of at the new Mitcham Hub thanks to the wonderful help of volunteers.

"Our new Mitcham Hub is a wonderful facility and has been carefully renovated by the owners to create the perfect Hub for our clients". says Judy Curran, Chief Executive, scosa.

"It's a very large facility and provides an array of activity rooms where clients enjoy sporting, music and other activities, a sensory room, client friendly kitchen and a secure garden offering recreational opportunities for our clients too."

The garden however just needed a little TLC and with the wonderful work of a group of volunteers from Fujitsu, this was soon taken care of.

Within the first two weeks of moving in, United Way kindly offered scosa a group of volunteers through their Corporate Connect program to help blitz the garden.

"We were so excited about the opportunity to have the garden blitzed by a group of volunteers. It's wonderful to have the community support the work we do. And the garden just looks amazing!" says Judy United Way take a leadership role in corporate community involvement programs on a national basis.

They select a group of charities or projects to support and engage corporations and individuals to donate money, time and resources to support these efforts.

This not only ensures the dollar are channeled towards a specific project, but also allows the charities to focus on and improve what they do best – helping those in need.

"The volunteer team from Fujitsu worked extremely hard in very warm weather and have created a vibrant and gorgeous garden for all our clients to enjoy".

scosa sincerely appreciates the support of the wonderful volunteers and looks forward to working with United Way again in the future to create more opportunities to help involve the community in enhancing the lives of people with disabilities throughout South Australia.
