scosa partners with AIM

scosa, the Spastic Centres of South Australia Inc has partnered with the Australian Institute of Management (AIM) for 2009 to support it's Women in Management programme.

The joint collaboration is a fantastic opportunity for two iconic South Australian organisations to work together for the benefit of the community.

"scosa provides support and services to people with disabilities throughout South Australia. We are committed to the ongoing development of our staff through training, flexible work practices and a positive work environment that encourages teamwork and creativity. This enables our staff to work together to achieve desirable outcomes for people with disabilities." says Judy Curran, Chief Executive, scosa

AIM SA has a core purpose to develop better managers and leaders for a better society. They do this through management education and training, events, research and membership services.

"scosa sincerely appreciates the opportunity to partner with AIM in 2009 as we truly see them to be a key professional development partner". says Judy

Funds raised through the partnership over the next 12 months will go a long way in supporting the valuable work of scosa and ensuring that people with disabilities throughout South Australia continue to receive the support and services they deserve!
